CONCENTRATES

Concentrate is made by removing the skin and pips of the fruit (or other raw material), and juicing the inner flesh. This natural juice is then subjected to a heat treatment to remove some of the water content resulting in a concentrated solution which has a significantly smaller volume.

At this smaller volume, the concentrate is more convenient and cost-effective to transport. It can be used in its concentrated form, or restored to a regular-strength juice by re-adding water once it reaches the final processing point.

- Fruit
- Citrus: Lemon, Lime, Orange
- Wine

HERITAGE

The knowledge that comes with 120 years' experience as one of the first food importers in the United Kingdom has no equal. Our continuous pursuit for excellence has garnered us a "Royal Warrant by HM The Queen" and over the years we've evolved with the industry, we know how to add-value and help our customers achieve success.

Our heritage might be everything Italian, from pasta, tomatoes, olive oil and balsamic vinegar, but our expertise now has a global footprint.

LUPA FOODS

1902

Then known as Donatantonio, Lupa Foods started as a pioneering delicatessen shop in Clerkenwell (London) importing and selling ingredients from Italy.

Donatantonio

dal 1902

1963

Initially launched as a product range, the Lupa brand soon became synonymous with outstanding quality products from the Mediterranean region.

2001

We were granted a Royal Warrant of Appointment as a Tradesman to HM The Queen, a further endorsement of the quality of our products and service.

2018

Donatantonio acquires Compleat Food Network, another business with decades of experience in the food industry. As a homage to the past and a sign of what's to come, the business rebrands as Lupa Foods.

2022

Lupa Foods, 120 years in the making, today at the forefront of food solutions.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The Lupa brand was established by our business 50 years ago, symbolising only the finest Italian ingredients.

The name, originally inspired by a Roman legend, today represents our heritage and business philosophy of sustainability, inclusion and that we're always in the loop when it comes to everything food.

Represented not only in our name and logo, but in our business values too, Lupa Foods is built around our customers. Our heritage combined with a passion for the finest food, technical excellence and customer service makes us a trusted partner in the food industry.
